PREFATORY NOTE.

The following pages contain a translation of a Law (No. 3066), dated the 1st March, 1916 (which was slightly modified by two subsequent Laws, dated the 5th April, 1916), embodying a new Customs Tariff for Chile. A translation of the Tariff Bill in the form in which it passed the Chamber of Deputies was published by the Board of Trade in 1914 as a Parliamentary Return (Cd. 7458). As explained in the Prefatory Note to that Return, the present measure is the outcome of the deliberations of a Commission consisting of certain members of the Chilean Chamber of Deputies appointed in 1909 to elaborate a scheme for the reform of the former Customs Tariff Law of the 23rd December, 1897.

The present Law was published in the Chilean "Diario Oficial" for the 10th April, 1916, and, in virtue of Article 24, the new rates of duty were to come into full force and effect 30 days thereafter.

The new Tariff has been framed on a directly specific basis: the former Tariff duties, except in a few instances, were also in effect specific though in form they were ad valorem, being levied on the basis of a percentage on the official valuations assigned to the various classes of merchandise in the "Valuation Tariff," which was a comprehensive list of goods classified under about 3,600 distinct headings. The former rates of duty, shown in this Return (as far as possible) for purpose of comparison, have been computed from the percentage rates and official values established for the various articles, and they include the additional duties which were leviable under the Law of the 12th February, 1912.

The duties are expressed in pesos of eighteen pence. The kilogramme is equivalent to 2·2046 pounds avoirdupois.

Appended to the translation of the new Customs Tariff Law will be found (pages 119–121) a translation of a series of general rules respecting the application of the new Tariff, which were approved by a Presidential Decree (No. 364) dated the 22nd March, 1916.

"Article 1.—All goods admitted to Customs warehouses shall pay 1 per cent. on their value, "for storage charges, from the date of their entry into the warehouse.

"If they are not taken out within a period of three months an additional warehousing charge "of ¼ per cent. shall be imposed at the commencement of each of the succeeding months. After "the goods have been stored six months this additional charge shall be ½ per cent. monthly.

If the goods have not been taken out at the expiration of a further 30 days, "arrangements shall be made to sell them by auction in accordance with the general regulations."

Article 107 of the Customs Regulations provided that "immediate clearance" goods for importation or for private warehouses were to pay double warehousing charges when through error, neglect on the part of interested persons or firms, or for other reasons, they are deposited in Customs warehouses, without prejudice in regard to clearing them as soon as required by the proper store-keeper.

Article 18.—When the case contemplated by Article 56 of the Customs Ordinance* occurs in regard to goods which have names, marks or inscriptions which invest them with a proprietary character (such as commercial advertisements or signs, labels, receptacles or the like), their sale by public auction may not be carried out except at a price which may cover the amount of duty leviable. In the absence of any bidding to this value, the goods in question shall be confiscated to the State in payment of the duty, and steps shall be taken to render them unfit for use.

Article 19.—For the purpose of applying the fines laid down by Law in respect of dutiable goods and based on the value of the goods, such value shall be assessed at a sum equal to four times the relative import duty. Article 20.—Any protests anent the classification, valuation, weight, measurement or quantity of goods shall be referred to the Director of the Customs House concerned, who shall decide the issue after hearing two experts (one to be nominated by the Customs authorities, and the other by the person or firm interested), and, at Valparaiso, the Chief of the Board of Appraisers ; and, at other places, the Appraiser who may have examined and classified the goods.

An appeal in respect of decisions arrived at by Directors of Customs Houses may be made to the Superintendent of Customs, and in any event they shall be referred to the latter. The finding declared by the Superintendent of Customs shall be final and shall be valid in all Customs Houses.

Protests may not be lodged after the working day following the date on which the records regarding the matter were entered in the respective Customs entry form or if the goods or part thereof shall have been taken away from the precincts of the Customs House.‡

Article 21.—The President of the Republic is empowered to limit to certain Customs Houses the importation of such products or goods as he may deem expedient.

Article 22.—The duties and fines established in this Tariff and in the Customs Ordinance and Regulations are expressed in gold pesos of eighteen pence.

Article 23.—The present Tariff shall be considered as the minimum tariff, applicable to products from countries which grant most-favoured-nation treatment to importations from Chile. The President of the Republic is empowered to impose a surtax of 25 per cent. of the duties fixed by the Tariff, as a maximum tariff, applicable to products from other countries.

Article 24.—This Law shall come into force immediately on publication in the "Diario Oficial."§

Nevertheless, merchandise or products which are cleared through the Customs Houses of the Republic within 30 days following such publication shall be subject to the Customs duties previously in force.

Importations by the land frontiers effected within the period of 30 days referred to in the preceding paragraph shall also be subject to the duties previously leviable.

* Article 56 of the Customs Ordinance reads as follows :—

"If at the expiration of every three years a renewal for storage is not applied for, the goods "shall be put up to public auction, three days' notice being given in some newspaper, or, "failing this, notice by posters describing the nature of the goods that are to be put up to auction "with an indication of their marks and numbers, name of the consignee and that of the vessel by "which they were imported.

"The goods will be knocked down to the highest bidder, unless, in the opinion of the Chief "of Customs, the price offered is too low."

[The time mentioned in this Article was reduced to one year, without extension, by Laws Nos. 980 and 2,664.]

‡ This Article appears to take the place of the following Articles in the Customs Ordinance :—

"Article 70.—Protests in regard to valuations shall be lodged with the head of the Customs "House affected, who shall decide the issue, without further appeal, after hearing two experts, "(one to be nominated by the Customs authorities, and the other by the interested person or "firm) and, at Valparaiso, the Chief of the Appraisers ; and, at other places, the Appraiser who "shall have conducted the examination."

"Article 71.—No claim whatsoever shall be entertained unless lodged within 24 hours after "the goods have been examined, or if the person or firm interested should already have taken "them away."

GENERAL RULES FOR THE APPLICATION OF THE TARIFF.

[The following rules for the application of the New Customs Tariff have been drawn up by the Chilean Customs Department, and were approved by a Presidential Decree (No. 364) of the 22nd March, 1916. They were to come into operation at the same time as the new Tariff.]

(1) In the following cases, clearances of goods shall not be considered as legally completed unless the Chief of Appraisers (in Valparaiso) or the Administrator of Customs (in other Customs houses) has approved the clearance and noted such approval in the respective Customs entries :—

(a) In cases where the value of goods dutiable on an ad valorem basis has to be ascertained ;

(b) In cases where duties have to be assessed on goods by way of assimilation of such goods to articles specified in the Customs Tariff ; and

(c) In cases when, on examination, it appears that the goods are liable, by virtue of their inferior quantity or quality, to duties less than those to which they would be subject according to their description on the Customs entry forms.

(2) When it appears from the examination of goods that they are liable to lower duties than those which should be applied to them in virtue of their description on the Customs entry forms, the forwarding of these forms shall be delayed for a period of 48 hours. The documents shall not be so delayed, however, in the case of goods presented for clearance in packages containing only one kind of goods, if the duties are to be levied by weight and the weight as shown in the Customs entry exceeds the real weight (as ascertained) by not more than 10 per cent.

(3) Goods composed of two or more parts which are imported in a separate condition, but within the same package, shall be dutiable at the rate applicable to the complete article when such parts correspond in class and number so that united they form completed articles. The duties prescribed in the Tariff for separate parts of a complete article shall be applied separately when the parts are presented for clearance in separate packages.

(4) Articles which are presented in an incomplete condition by reason of the absence of any part or accessory which does not modify the nature or use of the article shall be treated as though they were completed articles, unless the Tariff prescribes special duties for such articles.

(5) By net weight shall be understood the weight of goods deprived of all coverings, or the weight of goods which are without receptacles or packings and are cleared merely fastened together.

(6) By legal weight shall be understood the weight of goods with all their receptacles (including fastenings) with which they are packed inside the external wrapping which serves as a general receptacle, excluding straw, chip, paper, sawdust or other materials used for disposing the parcels or packets.

(7) The weight of a postal parcel shall be regarded as legal weight, unless the articles contained therein are put up in their ordinary receptacles or wrappings.

(8) By weight excluding boxes shall be understood the weight of the goods with their immediate wrappings and fastenings, excluding boxes of wood, cardboard, paper, gummed cloth or tinplate which contain the goods inside the external packing.

(9) By gross weight shall be understood the weight of the goods with all their receptacles and packings, internal and external. In the case of goods which are generally carried merely fastened up or in bulk (such as rails, iron, coal, &c.), the gross weight is that of the goods in the condition in which imported.

(10) In the case of goods dutiable by legal weight, the dutiable weight shall be fixed as follows :—

(a) if the goods are presented unpacked, or merely fastened together, inside packages containing only one kind of goods, the gross weight is to be taken as the legal weight ;

(b) if the goods are presented unpacked, or merely fastened together, but are in the same packages as goods of other kinds, duty is to be assessed on the net weight increased by 10 per cent. ;

(c) when the goods have been carried loose, in bulk, or merely fastened together, duty shall be levied on the net weight increased by 10 per cent. ; and

(d) duty shall be levied on the net weight increased by 10 per cent. in the case of goods disposed in cases or sheaths, where such cases or sheaths are classified for duty separately.

(11) When goods dutiable on gross weight are presented in the same package as other goods subject to different duties or to duty based upon various units, 20 per cent. shall be added to the legal weight in the case of goods in receptacles or wrappings, and 30 per cent. to the net weight in the case of goods without receptacles or wrappings. As an exception to this rule, the net weight is increased by 80 per cent. in the case of the following goods :—crystal wares, china, porcelain, furniture, pianos, phonolas and other apparatus for playing the piano or organ, iron wares, paraffin lamps and iron bedsteads, with or without ornaments of brass.

(12) Receptacles and wrappings shall be considered as articles of commerce (irrespective of their contents), and shall be subject to the relevant Customs duty, in the following cases :—

(a) when such receptacles and wrappings are not those ordinarily and generally used in commerce (i.e., those of which the sole use is merely the packing of goods for safety and transport) ;

(b) when the receptacles and wrappings are intended to increase the value of the contents by exaggerating their merits, or when their quality does not correspond to that of the goods ;

(c) when it is evidently intended to use them subsequently as receptacles, recipients, ornaments or for other similar purposes, distinct from their original purpose ;

(d) when the duties on the receptacles, reckoned separately, are higher than the duties applicable to the goods contained.

(13) The provisions of the preceding Rule shall not apply in the case of goods in respect of which the Tariff specifies that the duties are to apply to the goods "including the corresponding receptacles and wrappings," except in the case contemplated in letter (d) of the preceding Rule.

(14) Sheaths or cases shall be classified for duty separately, unless contrary stipulations exist in the Tariff. As an exception, those containing scientific instruments, machines, tools or apparatus for professional or industrial use shall be regarded as ordinary wrappings.

(15) When the classification of tissues is dependent on the number of threads, the threads shall be counted by means of the instrument called the "thread-counter" or by means of unravelling.

In using the thread-counter, the first thread to be counted, either in the warp or in the weft, is to be easily visible and quite distinct and as near as possible to one of the edges of the opening or frame of the instrument. Fractions of threads in the result, both of the warp or weft, are to be neglected, even if the total of these fractions makes up a complete thread.

In case of doubt or disagreement as to the number of threads in cloths, a thread-counter with a larger examining area shall be used, or the tissue (part thereof) shall be unravelled. If doubts still exist in spite of this, the dispositions of Article 13 of the Customs Law shall be applied.*

(16) In determining the number of threads in figured tissues or in tissues with alternate close-woven and open-woven parts, the threads of both parts shall be counted, that is, the threads included within a space of the tissue in which the pattern is completely reproduced.

(17) By plain tissue shall be understood that formed by the weft threads crossing one by one the warp threads, alternating so that the recurring threads are first beneath and then above the warp threads.

Tissues composed of double or coupled threads, crossed by double or single threads, but which alternate in successive, and regular form, shall also be considered as plain weave.

(18) Twilled tissues are such as have diagonal strands running along the surface of the cloth from one selvedge to the other; for the purpose of the application of the Tariff, only tissues formed by series of three threads shall be considered as twilled. The warp being divided into series of three threads, the weft in its first intersection (recorrido) covers the first thread of each series and passes beneath the second and third; in the second intersection it covers the second and passes beneath the first and third, and in the third intersection it covers the third thread and passes beneath the first and second.

(19) By diaphanous tissue shall be understood a tissue which, when placed on any printed or written matter, leaves the written or printed characters clearly visible.

(20) In determining the classification of any cloth, the threads forming the body thereof shall be taken into account, and the threads in the edges (selvedges) shall be disregarded.

(21) Articles imported in the piece with markings or designs indicating the places in which they are to be cut (e.g., those intended to be made into capes, towels, serviettes, handkerchiefs, &c.), shall be classed as tissues, according to kind. As an exception to this rule, articles joined together by fringes or which otherwise only require to be cut before being ready for use, are considered as finished articles.

(22) In classifying made-up clothing, the cloth composing the lining is not to be taken into account unless it is visible on the exterior, as is the case with sleeve-cuffs, lapels and edgings, and with the lining of clothing made of net, lace or diaphanous tissues, in which case the highest duty applicable shall be levied.

(23) The duties assigned to articles of earthenware, china, porcelain, glass or crystal, with mountings or settings of metal or parts of other material such as wood, &c., shall only be applied in cases where the metallic, wooden, &c., part is firmly fixed to the article in an inseparable whole; if such parts are removable the duty applicable thereto shall be levied thereon, separately from the rest of the article.

(24) Scientific instruments and apparatus which, when presented, are joined to, or form a whole with, other articles, such as statues, inkstands, clocks, &c., shall be subject to the duties applicable to the articles of which they form a part.

(25) Gold, silver and platinum shall be regarded as precious metals, and other metals as common metals.

(26) The term iron includes both iron and steel.

(27) The term copper includes this metal and alloys called bronze and brass.

(28) In the specification of vegetable fibres contained in the Tariff, vegetable silk is not included.

(29) The term wool also covers animal hair which is used in place of wool.

(30) The duties fixed for articles of metal gilt, silvered, nickelled or coated with aluminium shall be applied to articles which have been subjected to any of these processes, even if only in part.

(31) Bedsteads of iron coated with copper shall be considered as bedsteads of copper.

(32) By the gross weight of bedsteads of iron, with or without brass ornaments, not imported in cases or crates, shall be considered the net weight increased by 80 per cent.

(33) Mattresses which make a complete entity with the corresponding bedsteads, being an integral part thereof, shall be subject to the duties applicable to bedsteads.

(34) Unspecified tapes and ribbons shall be classed as trimmings (passementerie).

(35) Separate parts of furniture, not specially enumerated in the Tariff, shall be considered as furniture in a "knocked-down" condition.

(36) The duties specified in the Tariff for boots and shoes shall be applied per dozen pairs.

(37) Tallow is to be distinguished from fat by noting the melting point, tallow melting at over 44 degrees Centigrade.

(38) All mechanical apparatus composed of various parts combined one with another, which are set in motion by any force and produce regular periodical movements, are to be regarded as machines.

(39) The term saddles covers saddles with their corresponding girths, stirrup-leathers and stirrups.

(40) Under the term "perfumery" shall be included aromatic preparations or products for perfuming the person or articles, except such as are specified in Groups B and C of Section VIII.

(41) In order that a print may be classed as an advertisement it must have an advertisement printed thereon in indelible form, and in such a way that it cannot be separated without damaging the picture.

(42) When it is desired to clear through the Customs drugs, beverages, foodstuffs or other substances which may be included under the prohibition of import established in Article 5 of the Customs Tariff Law, the importers shall request the Customs to take samples thereof, these samples to be sent direct by the Customs Director to the nearest Customs or Internal Revenue Laboratory with a request that they should be analysed.

When the respective certificate authorising the importation of the goods has been obtained, the Customs Director shall authorise the presentation of the relevant Customs entries.

In estimating the qualities or properties of drugs, beverages and foodstuffs, and in declaring, as a consequence thereof, whether the goods are or are not fit for consumption, the Customs administrators shall be governed by the scientific principles generally accepted on the matter.

(43) The formality established by the preceding rule may be omitted, provided that the Customs Director is prepared to accept, as sufficient evidence, an authentic certificate of analysis issued by a functionary, office or corporation of the country of origin which is competent to issue the same and which is recognised by the Government of that country. The respective Chilean Consul shall certify at the bottom of the certificate referred to that the office, &c., is so competent, and in the absence of such Consular statement the certificate shall not be taken into account.

The certificate referred to in the preceding rule shall contain, in addition to the result of the analysis, a declaration as to whether the article is fit for consumption and whether the article is permitted to be imported, in the same conditions, into the country of origin, in accordance with the regulations and ordinances there in force.

(44) The Customs authorities shall keep a register of all importations (permitted or refused) of drugs, foods, or other substances enumerated in Article 5 of the Customs Tariff Law. In this book the following particulars shall be entered, viz. :—the name of the owner or consignee and of the clearing agent; the name and nature of the product, trade mark, maker's name, country of production, office or corporation issuing the certificate of analysis, and the number of the import or re-export Customs entry, as the case may be. In the case of articles refused admission, the reason for the refusal shall also be indicated, and should the goods be destroyed or rendered useless, the date on which this was done.

(45) The certificate of analysis shall be affixed to the respective Customs entry, and if it refers to a consignment cleared through the Customs in separate lots at intervals, a certified copy of this certificate shall be added to each of the corresponding Customs entries.

(46) The Customs Directors shall notify the Superintendent's Department of cases in which any goods have been refused admittance as the result of the chemical analysis. At the same time they shall communicate all the particulars mentioned in rule 44 and shall, if possible, forward a sample of the goods.

The Superintendent's Department shall notify the facts to other Chilean Customs houses so as to prevent the importation of the same articles at other ports.

(47) The Customs authorities shall require the "visa" of the respective Internal Revenue Inspector on the principal copy of the entries for the clearance of spirits, wines and spirituous liquors, as an evidence that the formalities prescribed in the Internal Revenue Regulations have been duly carried out.

[(48) The dash (—) which appears in various headings in the Tariff is in substitution for the words "the same."]*

(49) The phrases "the same" or "as in the preceding heading" which are used in various places in the Tariff mean that the specification of the preceding headings referred to is to be considered as repeated, in so far as it is applicable.

(50) Persons clearing goods through the Customs shall be obliged to insert in the Customs entries all the particulars which the Customs Superintendent requires.

(51) These Rules are in the nature of general dispositions, and shall apply in cases where the Tariff does not contain special provisions.

* The dashes which appear in the original Tariff have not been reproduced in the present Translation, in which the sub-divisions of general heading have been indicated by insetting.
